REMEMBER:

WHAT'S AN INSECT?

Most insects have five basic physical characteristics:

Insects have what we call an exoskeleton or a hard, shell-like covering on the outside of its body.

Insects have three main body parts: head, thorax, and abdomen.

Insects have a pair of antennae on top of their heads.

Insects have six legs. They use the legs for walking, but sometimes an insect may have a pair of legs that are specially designed for jumping.

Insects have four wings.
