1. Read the text:

Do you ever go on school trips? Students in the UK do. Teachers in the UK like their students to learn by seeing and doing, so they take the students on trips to museums and activity centres. The history teacher sometimes gives students information about a place and then takes the students on a trip to that place. Students sometimes go on a trip to see the animals and plants from their biology lessons, learning by seeing and doing is always interesting. It's a great change from sitting in a classroom and reading a book. Of course, a trip can be great fun, too.

2. Look into the dictionary the unknown vocabulary you need and write it in your notebook.
