

Important Information

Exercises to do this week. Only send exercises from Monday to Friday. Send answers here: gpa.ana@gmail.com

THEORY:

CONFUSING WORDS: SPECIALLY & ESPECIALLY

Especially is used to say that something applies more to one thing than to others.
Specially is used to say that something is done for a particular purpose.

Before adjectives it's better to use especially to emphasize them. For example, especially good (but not specially good).

Especially cannot be used at the beginning of a sentence.
She loves vegetables. She especially likes carrots (but not Especially she likes carrots).

Examples:

1. Especially (= Mainly)

We should practice more, especially grammar.

2. Specially (= In a special manner)

This mouse is specially designed for left-handed people.

(Abstract taken from <http://www.saberingles.com.ar/which/95.html>)

PRACTICE: ESPECIALLY & SPECIALLY

1) Write especially or specially

1. Everybody likes this cake, the children.
2. This part of the film is interesting.
3. I made this cake for you.
4. She liked the cake.
5. This shower gel is designed for people with sensitive skins.
6. These butterflies are particularly noticeable in april and May, in these meadows