REALITY OF EUROPEAN MIGRATION: RE-ESTABLISHING A EUROPEAN IDENTITY THROUGH CULTURAL INTEGRATION AND ACTIVE LIFE

WHAT IS MIGRATION?

Migration is a movement, permanent or temporary, of groups from one territory to another, from one location to another, determined by various reasons, but essentially by necessities of life.

In addition to Spaniards returning to the country, some of the foreigners who obtained Spanish nationality in previous years have also returned to Spain. They are mainly people from Latin America, and in particular from Venezuela.

Among the foreigners who arrived in Spain in 2017, the main nationalities are Moroccan, Colombian and Venezuelan. The regions with the highest migratory influx were Madrid and Catalonia.

The latest data on the resident population in Spain in 2017 is 46,659,302 people registered.

WHAT TEACHERS THINKS ABOUT MIGRATION?

As a result of the interviews, we found that there is no discrimination in the school, there is respect among the children and help with integration. Sometimes language could be a problem but with the right methods it is an obstacle that can be overcome.

Pathways are adapted according to the pupil's knowledge.

WHAT FAMILIES THINKS ABOUT MIGRATION?

Families see migration as an opportunity to improve Europe's future, as long as there is respect for the rules, they find work and get educated.

They think that more thorough border controls should be made to decrease the delinquency rate, which is around 20%.

WHAT GUYS THINKS MIGRATION?

Most of the guys come from Latin America. Arrived in Spain at an early age, they did not experience any problems with the language.

Migration is seen as an opportunity to improve life expectancy, unite different ethnic groups and cultures . Most people migrate to find work and study, although many others migrate without finding better living conditions.
